i-View: The New Account Management Tool From Technology Management Resources, Inc.

Orlando, FL - June 1, 2006 – Technology Management Resources (TMR) announced today the release and availability of CITATION™ i-View, their new software module providing internet access to files, reports, and archived transactions from the CITATION™ e-Remit payments processing solution.

Banks have traditionally forwarded daily activity to their lockbox customers via media (CD, DVD, diskette) and scheduled electronic transmission. Now, with i-View, this information is automatically placed at a secure web location accessible by customers for download via the internet.

Additionally, transaction history is maintained and accessible with full query capabilities to research, display, and download selected images and data.

Rick Carlson, project leader for the i-View solution explained, “This empowers the bank’s commercial customers to define their own schedule for working with information; either for posting to accounts receivable or performing research projects. It also frees the bank from the try (and often) re-try activities associated with making contact and then transferring the information each day.

“By far the most powerful tool is the archival function,” Rick went on to add. “This enables research to be performed by the customer as opposed to requesting that the bank do it for them. Searches can be performed by date range, dollar amount range, and many other fields of captured data from the transaction.”

CITATION™ e-Remit is TMR’s image based version of the company’s payment processing solution. “e-Remit has proven to be a popular upgrade for users of our original CITATION™ solution,” stated Ann Clifford, who heads up product development for the company. “The image based solution improves efficiency and opens many new opportunities for our banks to offer lockbox services. i-View makes it even more convenient for the bank’s customers.”

According to Ann, “Customers can contact their TMR Business Builder™ representative to schedule a demonstration of the new i-View module. Once you see it you are going to want it for all your accounts!”

The i-View solution is custom formatted to each bank’s individual look and feel. TMR support services can define colors, verbiage, and graphics at the bank’s discretion. Delivery positions are currently available for August implementations.
